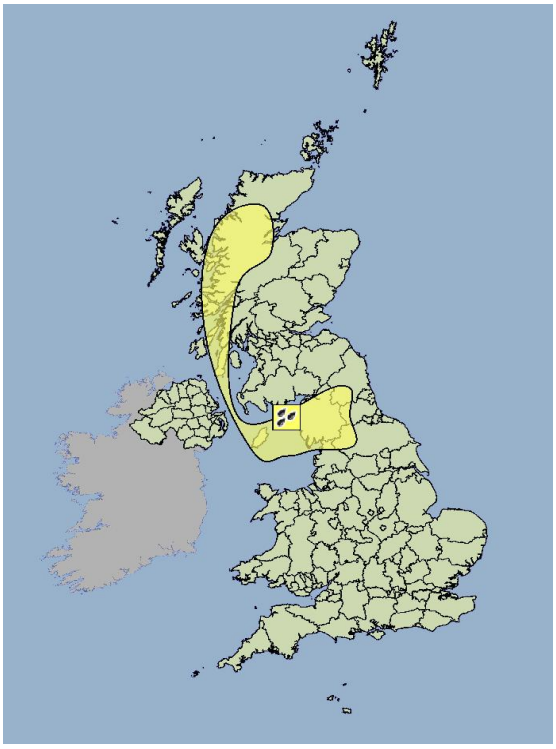
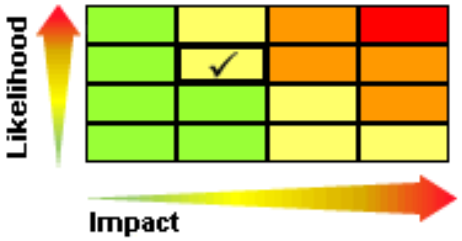
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A large area of rain is expected to cross the UK on Saturday. Whilst expected rainfall amounts (50-75 mm over high ground) are not unusual for February this follows a number of wet days. In addition there will be some melting of lying snow.

Some uncertainty remains in the duration of rainfall and its southward extent over England, as well as the amount of snow lying over higher ground which will melt during the event.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 00:00 on Sat, 25th Feb 2017 until 21:00 on Sat, 25th Feb 2017

Heavy rain is expected over northwest England and northwest Scotland on Saturday.

This may lead to some disruption to travel and perhaps localised flooding.
